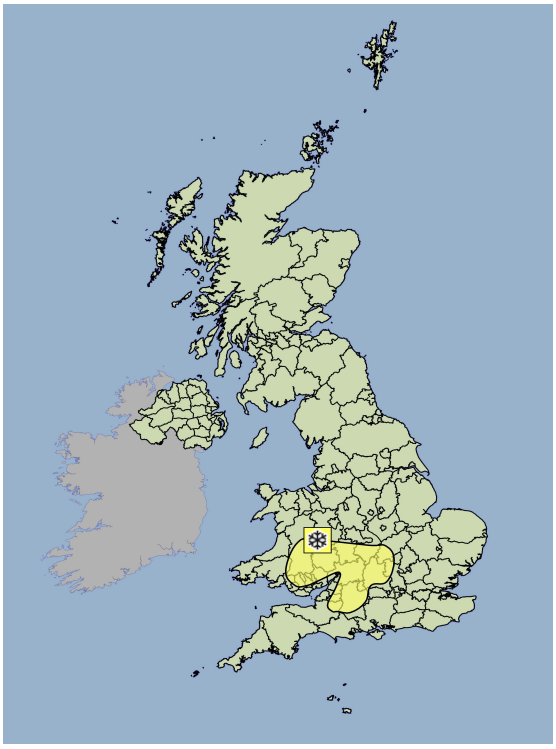
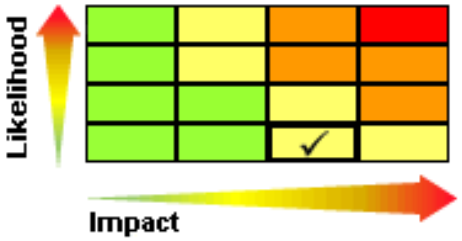
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
An area of low pressure is expected to move eastwards on Friday. There remains some uncertainty in its track and therefore on the risk and location of any snow.

This warning will be kept under review and the public are advised to keep up to date with the forecast and warnings.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Snow

Valid from 02:00 on Fri, 28th Feb 2014 until 15:00 on Fri, 28th Feb 2014

Rain will turn to snow for a time, mainly over the high ground during Friday morning. Over low ground it is unlikely that any snow will accumulate but some areas may see falling snow and slushy deposits for a time.

The public are advised to be aware of the potential for some disruption to travel especially during the Friday morning rush hour.
